

The only change that should be made to the "NO CALL" Rule might be to include the three categories that are presently exempt. Please don't preempt the existing law for any reason. I HAVE MY RIGHTS TOO and my right to privacy in my own home should not even be questioned. My elderly father is also on the "No call" list - for the last 4 years, he had received calls from people asking for my mother who died 5 years ago. The calls significantly decreased when his number was added to "the list".

The only reason I can see the law being changed to enable these horribly rude & annoying telemarketers to continue calling people that do NOT want these calls is if someone were to benefit from the sale of the electronic devices that will screen them out. I'm sure the sales would skyrocket.
